

Pacific Union College

Major in History, European History Emphasis—B.A.

OCCUPATIONAL INFORMATION

General Areas of Service:

The history major offers an excellent background for law, medicine, and dentistry, as well as government service. It is a relatively unstructured major and therefore permits unusual flexibility of career choice while the student is actually taking courses. There is room, particularly if one begins by the sophomore year, to work in the specific requirements of almost all pre-professional curricula.

Students have access to the Utt Memorial Library in the department's reading room and the department seminar room. Faculty-student suppers and discussion groups complete the collegial and friendly atmosphere, the hallmark of the department.

Prospective teachers should take a Social Studies major and consult with department teachers about non-departmental courses. Following completion of the Social Studies major, each student seeking a California teaching certificate must take the California Subject Examination of Teachers (CSET).
