Occupational Information

The essence of a pre-law education is critical thinking, logical reasoning, reading, and writing. Classes which strengthen a student's ability to do these things will help him or her to prepare both for the LSAT and law school. Classes in political thought, ethics, and business law are also helpful.

The pre-law student should meet regularly with a pre-law advisor, become acquainted with admission requirements of the law school of his or her choice, and obtain the booklet "Law Schools and Bar Admission Requirements," published by:

Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar
American Bar Association
1155 East 60 Street
Chicago, IL 60637
