PUC'S GRADUATE DEGREES: SERVICE ACROSS SECTORS

Over the past few years, Pacific Union College has enthusiastically expanded its graduate degree programs in education, nursing, communication, and business, offering flexibility, small class sizes, experiential learning, and most importantly, a Christian environment that empowers students with opportunities within the Seventh-day Adventist world and beyond.

TWO NEW DEANS GRACE PUC'S RESIDENCE HALLS

Pacific Union College was pleased to welcome two individuals whom they appointed as assistant deans for the men's and women's dorms last fall quarter. PUC Vice President of Student and Spiritual Life, Aimee Leukert, said they were "answers to prayers," and were welcomed with open and loving arms by the school. Ever since they arrived, they have settled in nicely, not only living up to such high praise but going above and beyond for the students of their respective residence halls.

LAURA WIBBERDING PRESENTS ADVENTIST HISTORY AT RELIGIOUS LIBERTY SUMMIT

On February 7, Laura Wibberding, chair of the history department at Pacific Union College, delivered a presentation about the history of Seventh-day Adventists at the Interfaith Religious Liberty Summit main event in Salt Lake City, UT. This was her third time speaking about Adventist history for a religious liberty event, having previously spoken in November at the Religious Liberty Summit at the Paradise Adventist Church and in October at the Religious Liberty Breakfast hosted by the Northern California Conference.

PUC & LLU STEM AND HEALTH PROFESSIONS WORKSHOP: INSPIRING CAREER PATHWAYS

From February 22 to 23, Pacific Union College's School of Sciences and Loma Linda University Schools of Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Allied Health held STEM and health profession workshops for 75 students from Monterey Bay Academy, Mountain View Academy, Lodi Academy, and PUC Preparatory.

AN INTERVIEW WITH WORSHIP DIRECTOR NATALIE NAKANISHI

This year's Campus Ministries worship director is senior psychology and business, pre-law student Natalie Nakanishi. When she arrived at PUC, Natalie knew she wanted to be involved in ministry and help build a stronger spiritual community on campus. Since being invited to be on the worship team and joining outreach during her freshman year, Campus Ministries has been one of the most meaningful parts of her PUC experience.

STAFF SPOTLIGHT: DANIEL

MORALES Alumnus and Napa Native Daniel Morales has been the assistant athletic director at PUC for the last two years and was assigned to be the NAIA Compliance and Eligibility Coordinator this school year. He graduated from PUC with degrees in communication studies and Spanish in 2016, and feels his role as assistant AD is a full-circle moment.

PUC ON BROADWAY: A COMMUNITY BEYOND THE STAGE

From February 21 to 22, students from Pacific Union College and PUC Preparatory showcased the largest cast turnout of PUC on Broadway at the Paulin Hall Auditorium. A student-led production, this year's directors and producers were PUC seniors Leila Beltran, a senior liberal studies and music major, and Emily Lalas, a biology and music major.

ALIVE WITH JOY: PUC MUSIC TOUR

2026 Over winter break, February 5-8, Pacific Union College's department of music went on tour to the San Diego, CA, area. They performed for chapel programs at Escondido Adventist Academy and San Diego Academy, presented vespers at Paradise Village

Retirement Community and San Diego Fil-Am Adventist Church, and provided music for the church service at Bonita Valley Adventist Church.

PUC HOSTS FIRST-EVER BOYS' VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT

For the very first time, Pacific Union College hosted a boys' volleyball tournament featuring 10 academies from across the state. From March 6 to 7, this special event included Redlands Academy, San Gabriel Academy, Glendale Academy, Rio Lindo Academy, Mountain View Academy, Pine Hills Academy, Pleasant Hill Academy, Lodi Academy, Sacramento Academy, and PUC Preparatory. The San Gabriel Eagles won first place, finishing 3-1, with the Pine Hills Eagles in second and the Redlands Academy Bulldogs in third.
